Dear Sir,

Sub: - Permitting faculty and dental technicians for the Exocad India Roadshow

This is to bring to your notice that the Exocad India Roadshow will be held on 28th and 29th of March 2024. This workshop includes one day lecture and one day hands-on for the use of Exocad's latest software applications. We bought this Exocad software one year back and it is being used by the staff and post-graduate students of the Department of Prosthodontics, Pedodontics, Orthodontics, Periodontics and Conservative dentistry. Technicians also help in 3D printing the models and crowns whenever required.

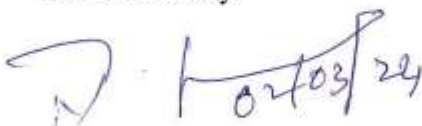

In order to utilise the digital dentistry facility available in-house, I request you to kindly permit and sponsor the registration fee for two dental technicians and two faculty of our department.

The actual registration fee is Rs.22000/- per head but since we have the Exocad licence with us the discounted registration fee is Rs.9000/- per head. (Total of Rs.9000*4=Rs.36000). Kindly make arrangements to sponsor four people so that this will be useful in utilizing the facility and improving the quality of designing the models, prostheses and implant related work for the patients of our institution. This will also enable some more research activity utilizing the Exocad software. We will be able to conduct training/workshop for interns as well as faculty and post-graduates on chargeable basis and thus the amount spent can be recovered in the near future.

Kindly do the needful.

Thanking You

Yours sincerely

TITLE:

USE OF PROLIFERATIVE CELL NUCLEAR ANTIGEN TO CATEGORISE AN
"INFLAMED ODONTOGENIC CYST" WITHOUT CLASSIC HISTOPATHOLOGIC
FEATURES – AN EXPLORATORY STUDY

ABSTRACT

Objectives: This pilot study aimed to find if cysts with a non-specific diagnosis of "Inflamed Odontogenic Cysts (IOC)" can be typed as specific cysts using immunohistochemical analysis of PCNA. The objectives of this study were

- to correlate the location, intensity and area percentage of PCNA staining between groups, to find the most similar staining location.
- To explore the use of PCNA in differentiating between OKC and DC, when classic histopathological features are absent.

Materials and Methods: 10 cases of IOC, 5 cases of dentigerous cysts, and 5 cases of odontogenic keratocyst were stained with anti-PCNA using immunohistochemistry. The location of staining, intensity, and staining percentages were noted. Statistical analysis was carried out.

Results: The difference in the location and mean area percentage of PCNA staining between 3 groups was statistically significant. Two cases diagnosed as IOC could be definitely categorized as OKC and two cases as possibly DC, based on the combination of all three parameters.

Conclusion: The location of staining and area percentage staining of PCNA are more reliable parameters for identifying OKC, while the intensity of PCNA staining is useful for DC. Thus, no one parameter may be useful in differentiating between OKC and DC when no classic histopathologic features are present. Since this was an exploratory study and the first of its kind, studies with larger sample size and more parameters and markers are required.

Keywords: odontogenic cysts, odontogenic keratocyst, dentigerous cyst, inflamed odontogenic cyst, proliferating cell nuclear antigen
