2.6.4 b. Follow-up report and outcome analysis

Parent Teacher meetings are held regularly for undergraduate students. PTMs are planned by the Year-wise co-ordinators, however, parents are always welcome to meet with teachers at any time.

During the parent-teacher interactions, many issues were raised. Parents were told about their ward's performance in the internal examinations and their attendance. If students had any other issues they were also discussed with the parents.

Some students were not interested in the course as they wanted to pursue other professional courses. Students were counselled. Parents were told about the student management system to follow up the attendance of their ward. Mentor mentee meetings were held and extra classes were taken to compensate for the lost practical classes.

The outcome of these remedial measures was that there was an increase in the attendance of the students, students felt more confident and parents also started communicating with the teachers more frequently.

Some students were not interested in the course as they wanted to pursue other professional
